

Ladner's proposed site faces court battle

BY MARY G. SEILEY

State officials have dealt blows to two proposed casino sites in Hancock County. Wetlands and dredging permits for Galaxy Casino's site in the Clermont Harbor area would be denied under preliminary recommendations from the Bureau of Marine Resources staff. And the three-year-old quest of Terryl Ladner to have his Bayou Caddy tract approved as a casino site is also in jeopardy.

The state Commission on Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks is set to hear the Galaxy matter in a meeting March 30 in Jackson. The Bureau of Marine Resources is an arm of the commission, which has reviewed Galaxy's request for permits to dredge a 1,600 foot canal off South Beach Boulevard and for change in the coastal use plan to designate the site as a special use district. BMR spokesman Chris Snyder said Wednesday the bureau's staff has sent preliminary findings to the commission. Galaxy president, Alvin Perry, declined comment on BMR's position. "We are not announcing what we're doing" in response to the BMR position, Perry said. He stressed, however, that no final recommendations have been made by BMR. Snyder said the preliminary findings are under review by state officials within the agency. It is possible, but not probable, that the review will alter the staff's preliminary findings, Snyder said.

Aluminum bandits rob recycling bins

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Beware, aluminum vultures have hit Bay St. Louis.

Penny Penrose of Gulf Coast Recycling said Tuesday that a number of area residents have complained about their recycling bins being robbed of aluminum cans.

Penrose said thieves apparently pass along the recycling route, dump the contents of bins, take the aluminum, and flee.

She told Bay St. Louis City Council the result is a mess: plastic and glass containers, and newspapers are left in a heap in residential yards, to the dismay of the residents and the recycling crews.

Penrose said enterprising thieves apparently take the aluminum and run to cash them in.

In other matters, Penrose said GCR is hoping to add magazines to its list of items it will recycle. Mixing newsprint and magazines together lessens the value of the newsprint, she said, but GCR would be willing to do that if it can find a stable market for the mixed paper.

Meanwhile, Penrose asked the city's help to encourage apartment complex managers and owners to join in the recycling program. She said some resident managers are fearful their complexes will become cluttered with empty bins which aren't retrieved by tenants.

Gulf Coast Fabrication growing at Port Bienville

BY AMY PICKICH

Gulf Coast Fabrication, Hancock County's largest employer at Port Bienville Industrial Park is in the process of expanding with the lease Lot 5A, which was recently vacated by Ryan Marine Shipyard.

After an environmental assessment of the property, Port and Harbor Commission President Dave McDonald said Gulf Coast Fabrication could begin utilizing the property in about a week.

Hazclean Corporation is currently performing an inspection of the site.

Commissioners agreed to lease the location at a special meeting of the commission Feb. 22.

Gulf Coast Fabrication will pay $4,500 a month rent, some

Fire destroys historic Bay beachfront home

Bay St. Louis Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said officials won't be able to determine the cause of a fire that destroyed a historic beachfront home Tuesday morning until after the smoldering has ceased.

He said as long the fire continues to smolder, the site is still too dangerous for officials to conduct a thorough investigation.

Lizana speculated that the site could stop smoldering sometime today.

More than 30 area firefighters responded to four-hour blaze at 920 South Beach Blvd early Tuesday. According to Lizana, the roof fell in and the house was totally destroyed.

Diane Ladner, daughter of the house's owner, Edmond

Brignac Sr., and a 9-year-old boy escaped unharmed.

The house, which is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, was originally built in 1912. The Brignacs have owned the home since 1943.

Bay hopes to tie in beach replenishment with county

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis City officials plunged into beach renourishment hurriedly Tuesday, hoping to get a last minute connection to the county's program.

Council also discussed the possibility that the long-touted depot renovation program may collapse under the weight of an environmental assessment which, so far, has turned up negative news in water sampling.

In the beach matter, council authorized Mayor Eddie Favre to negotiate with Brown & Mitchell engineering for renourishment permitting. The city hopes to have the county's existing permit expanded to cover the stretch along Beach Boulevard between the Highway 90 bridge and the American Legion pier at Washington Street.

If the existing permit is expanded, and if there's enough sand in the borrow pit that the county is using for its program, the city may be able to tack its section of renourishment onto the contract the county has with the T.L. James Co.

Favre said "wild guess" estimates are the additional work would cost the city $300,000 to $500,000.

Certain areas north of Washington Street probably won't be in the program, Favre said, because of sea grass growth in some spots.

Other areas, between the bridge and Bayview Court, are privately owned. City officials

Washington St. traffic light debated

BY MARY G. SEILEY

After 16 years of consideration, a traffic light may be installed at Washington Street and Highway 90. After further study.

Bay St. Louis City Council approved a motion earlier this month by councilman Thomas Favre to proceed with the paperwork to get a light at the intersection. Two councilmen, Charles Scianna and James Rutherford, abstained from the vote.

Hancock County officials voiced renewed support for the signal, after hearing a plea from the president of the Garden Island Community Association, Monte Greenway.

"This has been going on for years," Greenway said. To back up that statement, she produced a two-year-old letter from the state's area traffic engineer, John E. Robinson, who said traffic studies have been made at least six times since 1978 on the location.

An incorrect figure was reported in the story, "Curbside recycling yields 200 tons since its start," which appeared in the Sunday, March 20 edition.

Bay St. Louis residents achieved a 56 percent participation rate in their first year performance of curbside recycling, which significantly exceeds the national norm of 30-40 percent participation, according to Gulf Coast Recycling statistics. The story reported the national norm to be 50 percent.

The Sea Coast Echo regrets the error.

Ladner sued to have the commission's position overturned. Dr. Ervin Otvos, a geologist with the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, testified that Bayou Caddy is a westward extension of the Mississippi Sound. The site is bordered on the south side by Point Clear Island.

Mack Cameron, Ladner's attorney, argued that the commission lacked any evidence to support its decision.

"It is simply incredible that this commission made its decision based on an ABC investigator's opinion instead of the opinion of a well-known and highly-respected geologic expert," Cameron argued.

(An employee of the Alcohol Beverage Control division of the Tax Commission had conducted the site investigation that led to rejection of the Ladner property.)

Last month, Circuit Court Judge James Thomas upheld Ladner's position, saying there's no prohibition against locating a gaming facility on the Mississippi Sound.

"Evidence was uncontradicted that the body of water identified as Bayou Caddy is part of the westward extension of the Mississippi Sound, which is bordered on the south side by Point Clear Island," Thomas said. "Point Clear Island is one of the islands in the chain of islands that border other portions of the Mississippi Sound, the other islands being Petit Bois Island, Horn Island, Ship Island and Cat Island."

Thomas held that the former Gaming Commission had been arbitrary and capricious, in light of the facts that had been presented in the case.

While the case was in litigation, a new, permanent Gaming Commission was put into place. It had to decide whether to appeal Thomas' ruling on the old commission's actions.

Gaming Commission Director Paul Harvey declined detailed comment on why the commission decided to continue the matter in court.

"We feel...that was a good call from what we can see," Harvey said of the previous commission's site denial. "We fundamentally agree with the previous decision."

Harvey said the commission voted unanimously to appeal Thomas' ruling during a March 11 meeting.

Traffic

"As early as 1981, we advised then-Mayor Larry J. Bennett that traffic volumes at this location were sufficient to warrant signalization," Robinson wrote.

"We have repeated our position on this matter a number of times over the years," he added.

Robinson said the state Highway Department would approve a permit request from the city, which will have to pick up the tab for the equipment. It was estimated to cost $50,000 in 1992.

"There's something holding it up," said Supervisor Wilmer Seymour. "There's always been a snag. Maybe the $50,000 was a snag, but it shouldn't be a snag now."

Mayor Eddie Favre said last week the city is in the process of obtaining quotes on the equipment and finding out the exact procedure for the signalization. While there's no doubt from a traffic count standpoint that area needs a light, the mayor said, there has been contention over exactly where the light should be placed.

Favre said knowing that not every intersection along Highway 90 can have a signal, some think it should be installed at Drinkwater Boulevard or at Bouslog Street instead of Washington. Or, some think it should be reserved for the intersection of new road leading to Casino Magic, if such a road is ever built.

In a Monday night workshop, the mayor referenced Robinson's letter, and said the city will have to spend some $100,000 to see the Washington Street signalization project through to completion.

"The people aren't concerned about price. The people are concerned about safety. So am I," councilmember Farve responded.

In Tuesday night's regular council meeting, the issue arose again, with Favre asking that the city proceed to finance the light.

Instead, President James Thrifflay lashed out at Highway Department officials for not helping with the project. He said the city should ask for another traffic count to compare to the 1981 data - at Washington and at Drinkwater's intersections with Highway 90.

Beach

said work in those areas possibly could be financed by the private property owners who are concerned over the high rate of erosion to their property. If the city finances beach renewal in those areas, city officials said, the new beach would become public property.

"We don't want to wait any longer" Farve said of ground-work for the program. He noted that the James Co. expects to complete their work in a total of six to eight weeks - if the crews and equipment weren't already in the area, the city's cost could escalate to $1 or $2 million, Farve said in an earlier meeting.

The county's project began a week ago in the 900 block of South Beach Boulevard. By Sunday afternoon, the pumping had been completed all the way to Washington Street. The sand pumping action now is proceeding westward from the 900 block of South Beach, while drainage work is underway in the newly refurbished sections.

THE DEPOT
In other matters Tuesday, Council members were told that engineers twice have found unacceptable levels of metals in water samples at the old CSX depot site. Although the levels are said to be low, they are in access of national environmental standards.

At Farve's request council agreed to pay an additional $1,760 for engineers to drill additional ground water monitoring wells at the site. New precautions will be taken to ensure the samples are true representations of the groundwater, Farve said, without possible interference from sedimentation.

The city has a contract to buy the old depot, and has federal grants to renovate the structure and improve the grounds. Under plans developed months ago, the two-story Spanish Mission style structure would be transformed into a hub of public and private transportation services, and a city activity center.

Council members are concerned, however, that the site won't pass federal environmental standards. Results of the new tests are due Friday, and council may call a special meeting to deal with the issue after that.

RAILROAD CROSSINGS
Meanwhile, council member Charles Scianna said Tuesday he has serious second thoughts about the city having agreed to close four crossings of the CSX line: at St. Charles, Citizen, Ballentine and Agnes streets.

Scianna said he doesn't want to see those crossings closed, without an alternative route that would link Citizen, Ballentine and St. Charles streets with Washington Street.

Noting that the agreement to close the crossings was part of the purchase contract the city signed with CSX, council President James Thrifflay said the issue may become moot if the environmental assessment blocks the city from buying the depot.

In other business, a controversial zoning request was shelved at the last minute. Owners of 335 Main Street had asked for a special exception to allow offices in the structure.

Residents of the area had petitioned against the request, however, and the Planning and Zoning Commission had recommended it be denied.

Tuesday, attorneys for the owners withdrew the request. Council has been told, however, it will be resubmitted later.

$900 more than Ryan Marine was paying as part of a five-year lease which took effect March 1.

At the end of the lease the company will have an option to renew for another five years with a raise in the rent according to the Consumer Price Index.

Ryan Marine Shipyard, which is ceasing operations at the port, left a number of items, including fixtures, piping, tubing and two buildings. The commission will purchase the materials for $18,724. The purchase is part of a mutual release between the two entities.

The commission will pay for half of the infrastructure improvements to the area including bulkheading, sheet-piling and backfilling up to $48,000. The commission will lessen the GCF's rent by $1,000 a month up to the designated expense cap.

"At the February special meeting McDonald said the purchase is actually a settlement for the amount of back rent owed to the county by Ryan Marine. The material will be left on the property for the new tenant to utilize."

QUOTABLE QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

"Night of Casino Magic" is the premiere social event for Hancock County on Friday night, so says Lisa Rodriguez, Hancock County Exchange Club past president.

The gala event is the Exchange Club's way of raising funds for the South Mississippi Family Child Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

Festivities begin at 6:30 p.m. with some 22 area restaurants offering their specialties from steaks, seafoods, gumbo, desserts, etc. Foods will be available until 8 p.m.

Admission is $12.50 in advance or $15 at the door. The event be in the big tent at Casino Magic in Bay St. Louis.

At 8 p.m. fun begins with music for dancing and pleasure by Passport, the Gulf Coast's number one Show band, Rodriguez reports.

Tickets are available from Exchange Club members, Ruth's Bakery, or can be purchased at the door.

It is a casual-wear evening of good food, fun and good entertainment for a good cause.

One would be surprised at the number of people helped by the South Mississippi Family Child Center for the Prevention of Child Abuse.

The Exchange Clubs of the Mississippi Gulf Coast sponsor and financially support the center which does so much good.

There have been numerous woods fires in Hancock County during the past few weeks.

There was even a big one within the city limits of Waveland Tuesday in the Three-Mile branch.

It seems every year about this time there are problems with wild fires within our area.

Just about any part of our county now has residences, and just about every time woods burn, homes are threatened.

Many of these fires are set deliberately. Timber and wildlife are destroyed, not to mention the threat to residences.

The penalty for arson is very serious, and officials are looking into the origin of several fires.

In the county area, to report a woods fire or for information on controlled burning, call the fire tower at 255-7152.

If you reside with the Bay, Waveland or Diamondhead areas, to report a woods fire, call your respective fire department.

Those who smoke, please do not toss burning cigarettes out your vehicle's windows. I know everyone is now picking on smokers, even Congress, who wants to put on a big tax.

But some fires are started from cigarettes being tossed along road shoulders.

So, each and everyone, please be careful, as fire destroys so much.

It was really a beautiful day Tuesday for the Bay-Waveland annual Pilgrimage.

The only complaint I heard about was the gnats, which were out in full force.

It was good to see many of the local residents visiting the Bay St. Louis and Waveland places which were open.

The annual Mississippi Gulf Coast's Pilgrimage continues today with Long Beach's tours.

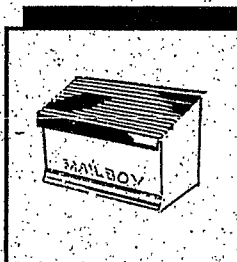

The 1994 Pilgrimage winds down on Friday with Gulfport and ends on Saturday with Biloxi.

Installing gun turret

Members of the Mississippi National Guard from Camp Shelby delivered a M-60 Tank to the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 Saturday. The tank arrived on two low-boys from Camp Shelby where it was used for training exercises for many years. In photo, Guardsmen are installing the gun turret, which arrived on the second low-boy. The M-60, a medium tank, is a memorial to be displayed at the Legion Post to be viewed by the community. (Echo staff photo by Ellis Cuevas)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Parking bays, restrooms needed along beachfront

Dear Editor:

As I have managed to alienate some friends in the city of Waveland, I have no desire to do the same with the board of supervisors, three of whom have been my friends for a very long time.

My concerns may have already been addressed, but if so, I've seen nor heard nothing in the media of plans for parking bays or restroom facilities to go along with the replenishment of the sand beach.

If the replenishment is primarily to protect the seawall and Beach Boulevard, then why was the most exposed area, that between Gulfside and Bayou Caddy not included?

If the replenishment was primarily to attract tourists, then why aren't these facilities included?

I've noted that Washington

Avenue, Nicholson Avenue, Lafitte Drive, Buccaneer State Park day-use area and Clermont Boulevard are the areas that attract the most beach goers. All of these areas need beach facilities. (The one at Buccaneer State Park is insufficient.)

Nicholson Avenue, Lafitte Drive and Clermont Boulevard need parking bays.

When you've got to go, you've got to go, and McDonald's or Burger King are a long way from the beach. It's the water, between cars or behind a bush, which translate to land and water pollution, and a terrible image.

If we're going to do this, let's do it right!

Sincerely,
Perry F. Gibson
Waveland

Loss of home to fire was unnecessary tragedy

Dear Editor,

The loss Tuesday morning of a beautiful beachfront home to fire was totally unnecessary. The Bay St. Louis Fire Department was dispatched three times to the residence during the night. The first two times they apparently considered the condition corrected and saw no reason to investigate further or to keep men and equipment on the scene to watch for a possible continuation of the fire.

I have heard that Chief Lizana did not appear at the scene until after the third call to the fire department. It is my opinion that the chief or one of the more experienced and formally trained firefighters should respond immediately to any scene involving smoke or fire. By not following this obviously basic concept, a serious flaw in the competence of our city administration has been revealed.

From what I have heard and observed, I do not believe that better equipment would have been able to significantly limit the damage to the property. I do, however, believe that competent leadership and proper training could have saved one of the city's classic beachfront homes.

IN CONGRESS

By Rep. Gene Taylor

Affordable housing greatly needed, says Taylor

In an effort to disseminate as much information as possible about affordable housing programs in South Mississippi, Congressman Gene Taylor and the Mississippi Home Corporation will sponsor an "Affordable Housing Symposium" at Keesler Air Force Base Tuesday, March 29. The symposium will take place at the Officers' Club and will run from 9:30 until noon.

"The Mississippi Home Corporation and myself want public and private institutions to come together to discuss issues and programs to generate affordable housing," Taylor said.

South Mississippi bankers, homebuilders, realtors and the commanding officers and executive officers of the Gulf Coast's military installations, and all other parties interested in achieving the common goal of finding decent and affordable homes for South Mississippi's low and moderate income residents, are asked to attend.

"The quality of life and welfare of our area's military personnel has been a major factor in our success when we've appeared before past Base Closure Commissions," said Taylor, a member of the House Armed Services Committee.

"Now more than ever we have an obligation to insure that affordable housing is available for our nation's military personnel."

The participation of the private sector is vital to assure the success of Mississippi Home Corporation's programs. The board of directors of Mississippi Home Corporation, who are appointed by the governor, have the professional experience which allows Mississippi Home Corporation to generate affordable housing through real estate development, financial lending and manufactured housing.

"I can't begin to tell you how many people, from all walks of life, have petitioned me to get government and the private sector together to discuss affordable housing," Taylor said.

"On March 29 we plan to take our first few steps toward making affordable housing along the Gulf Coast a reality."

Besides the Mississippi Home Corporation, the panel also will include representatives of the Mississippi Association of Homebuilders, Farmers Home Administration, Fannie Mae, Veterans Home Purchase Board and Housing and Urban Development.

Any person who wishes to attend should contact Taylor's office at 864-7670, 762-1770 or 1-800-273-4363 to confirm their attendance.

Fluoride is cornerstone of preventive dentistry

By Frank L. Conaway Jr., D.M.D.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following column will be published weekly. Topics will be addressed by various professionals in the community on a rotating basis.

Knowledge of the dental effects of fluoride began some 80 years ago with the study on the etiology of mottled enamel or the so-called "Colorado brown stain." In this study, it was discovered that too much fluoride was the cause of the staining, and with some luck, the researchers saw that daily intake of water with fluoride also prevented cavities.

As a result of these and many more recent studies, fluoride is now widely regarded as the cornerstone of modern preventive dentistry. A survey of nearly 40,000 children in the United States during the 1986 to 1987 school year, found that half of all children from 5 to 17 years old did not have any tooth decay in permanent teeth.

Cavities are not completely understood. It is known, however, that at least three factors must be present for the process to occur.

These are: a susceptible host with teeth, bacteria that can produce acids that attack the teeth, and a diet that contains refined carbohydrates.

If any one of these factors is missing, cavities do not occur. The best and most realistic individual and community defense against dental decay is the combined use of appropriate fluorides and pit and fissure sealants.

Fluoride is an odorless, colorless and tasteless element found in varying amounts in almost all water, soil and food. The exact ways by which fluoride works are not completely understood, but research shows that it makes teeth less susceptible to decay, both when taken internally during tooth development and when applied directly to erupted teeth.

Fluoride concentration in a community water supply is adjusted to the optimal level to reduce cavities. Based on what is known, fluoride acts in several ways:

—Tooth enamel that has incorporated fluoride during development and before the teeth appear in the mouth is more resistant to acid attack than fluoride-deficient enamel.

—Fluoride appears to act directly in several ways to reduce acid production by the bacteria in dental plaque.

—When applied directly to teeth, fluoride helps to resist attack by acids. Perhaps most importantly, fluoride facilitates the repair of enamel previously damaged by bacterial acids and, thus, helps to heal damaged enamel at an early state of decay, before an open lesion develops.

There are those who still oppose fluoride in public drinking water, even with all the research to show how effective it can be to prevent cavities.

Their concern is too much fluoride, which is valid, if there is too much in the water. Too much of anything can be harmful, but when taken in the proper dosage, fluoride can continue to be the single most effective means of preventing cavities.

Check with your dentist to find out if your water supply has enough fluoride. If the level is too low your dentist can prescribe fluoride supplements to reach that optimum level of protection.

Thompson named CEO

Bruce H. Thompson has been named president and chief executive officer of Thompson Equipment Co. (TECO) of New Orleans, succeeding his father, Horace A. Thompson, as CEO. The firm specializes in instruments and products for the pulp and paper industry.

TECO manufactures special consistency and freeness measurement instruments and refiner controllers and is the only non-manufacturer repair company of magnetic flowmeters in the United States. The company also represents nine other instrument companies in the Gulf South region. It began business in 1947.

Thompson, 47, began his career at TECO in 1972 after graduating from the University of Southwestern Louisiana with a degree in economics in 1971.

ON PATROL

DRUGS

Two men were arrested Tuesday and charged with conspiracy to distribute narcotics after officials recovered crack cocaine with an estimated street value in excess of $100,000, according to Hancock County Narcotics Task Force Director David Stepro.

Stepro said Cedric Goff, 30, of Gulfport and Michael Henry, 27, of the Catahoula community in Picayune were arrested in a joint operation of the HCNFT, the Jefferson Parish Sheriff's Office, the Mississippi Bureau of Narcotics and Drug Enforcement Administrators from New Orleans, and Gulfport.

Stepro said officers recovered approximately 19 1-ounce "cookies," which depending on the cut, could yield some 200 rocks per ounce on the street.

According to Stepro, Goff was charged through the Federal Court of the Eastern District of Louisiana and Henry through the Southern District of Mississippi.

"Both are considered major violators in the distribution of cocaine in Hancock, Harrison and Pearl River counties," Stepro said.

Stepro said the arrests are a result of an ongoing two-year investigation. He said other arrests are expected in connection with the investigation.

According to Stepro, both are being held until a federal judge sets a bond.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

ACADEMY HAPPENINGS

Members of the Mississippi Private School Association Art Contest are in, and some of our Diamondhead Academy students have excelled again.

Our school is in District IV East, which is comprised of 18 schools, most of which are quite a bit larger, so the competition is pretty stiff.

Our first place winners are Whitney Bowne and Jessalyn Poret, first grade; Brett English and Majorie Blanchette, second grade; Joelle Poret, Todd Farar and Meagan Moran, third grade; Erin Sawardecker and Jessica Duke, fifth grade; and Roxanne McCullough, sixth grade.

The second place winners are Kodie Koenenn, first grade; Jamie English and Josh Shiyou, third grade; Beth Wylie and Ricky Benvenuti, fourth grade; and Louis Nunez and Elizabeth Wahl, fifth grade.

The winners from each district in the state are submitted for judging, and the results were announced at the Mississippi Private School Association annual meeting last Friday in Jackson.

Applause, applause to Erin Sawardecker, who against all that competition won first place in the state, and to Jessica Duke who won second place.

Their beautiful pictures are on display in the lobby of the school. Plan to stop by for a visit and see what great things our kids are doing. Congrats to all of the winners.

The big "countdown" at the school last Friday was a big success and lots of fun for all attending.

The academy thanks all their gold sponsors, food sponsors and gift sponsors and others who donate so generously to make this a great fund-raiser. Surely some Irish eyes were smiling on the five lucky winners: Jon Ritten, Russell Love, John Williams, Louis Nunez and Tom Golding.

PLAYBILL

The Diamondhead Garden Club member of The Garden Clubs of Mississippi Inc. and National Council of State Garden Clubs Inc. presented "Broadway Bound."

The standard flower show was held at the community center March 22 and 23. No admission was charged and the public was welcome to view the lovely exhibits.

We certainly do have some talented and creative ladies in our club!

The first place blue ribbon winners are too many to list, but to name a few, they are Betty Sekul, Muriel McCoy, Margaret Arnos, Judy D'Geralamo, Ann Meyer, Bernie Iverson, Lois Manuel and our own president, Catherine McFaul, who also won a tri-color award for her beautiful fresh-flower design representing "A Chorus Line."

This event is another nice way to welcome spring and start Diamondhead's part of the annual Garden Club Pilgrimage.

Praises to Brierley Acker and Alice Brameyer for their fine job of staging this event.

WELCOME SPRING

Southern Child children's shop in the Diamondhead Plaza presented spring and summer fashions at the Sunday brunch at the country club.

Pictured are Katie and Dillon Kenney of Bay St. Louis, grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Odom of Diamondhead.

They modeled matching Bumblebee playwear designed by Sweet Potatoes.

Other models, not pictured, were Elizabeth Wahl, Jessica Duke, Erin Sawardecker, Chelsea Levy, Brenna D'Geralamo, Emily McNamara, Michael Underwood, Riley Reed, Matthew Darkow and Amber Barnhardt and Kaitlyn Collins of Waveland.

All of the children were lovely in their latest fashions, and Southern Child who plan to have more shows in the future, extends special thanks to all who participated, their parents and grandparents.

Driving by Ethel LeBreton's home on Golf Club Drive, the two reindeers on the side lawn are wearing green and wishing all Happy St. Patrick's Day!

ZEST FOR LOVE AND NATURE

The voice on the other end of the line sounded so happy and up-beat announcing that at precisely 2:28 p.m. on Sunday, March 20, the first day of Spring, friends of Bob Songy, a multi-media international environmental artist would present "A Change of Heart," a gallery of his beautiful works and poetry at the Diamondhead Yacht Club.

Those attending were treated to Bob's art throughout the club (what better setting) and lovely refreshments.

Bob's work reminds me of a piece by Mary Land in "Dreams." "We belong to the earth, but no part of the earth" belongs to us, for we are all sojourners."

Plan a trip to the yacht club to see these exhibits, which will be there awhile for all to enjoy.

ACS commits scholarships to USM and MGCCC on Coast

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
ACS, a newly formed joint venture partnership of Aerojet and Computer Sciences Corporation (CSC), announced a $20,000 scholarship commitment to Gulf Coast higher education during a reception recently at the Diamondhead Country Club.

The CSC partnership is pursuing the Test and Technical Services Contract at Stennis Space Center later this year.

The contract could be valued at $450 million over seven years. The partnership presented the first of five annual $2,000 scholarships to both the University of Southern Mississippi (USM) and Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College (MGCCC).

Accepting the scholarships were Dr. James Williams, USM, and Dr. Donnie Taylor, MGCCC.

The grants were presented by Terry L. Jenkins, ACS general manager; Roger I. Ramseier, Aerojet president; and Gary P. Hobbs, president, CSC's Applied Technology Division.

Ramseier said, "Aerojet just finished 52 years of history as a rocket engine company back to World War II."

"We have probably got the largest test facility in the United States in one of our facilities in Sacramento," continued, "So we felt with CSC's background as a full-blown engineering service company and our ability to really test rocket motors of every size, what a perfect team it would make to support the Stennis Space Facility, that we have here in Southern Mississippi."

The president of Aerojet

"We are real excited about the partnership we have put together as a team here," Ramseier said.

Hobbs stated, "Computer Science Corporation has been part of this community since 1976. We have a couple hundred employees in the area and we really think this is a great opportunity for us and Aerojet."

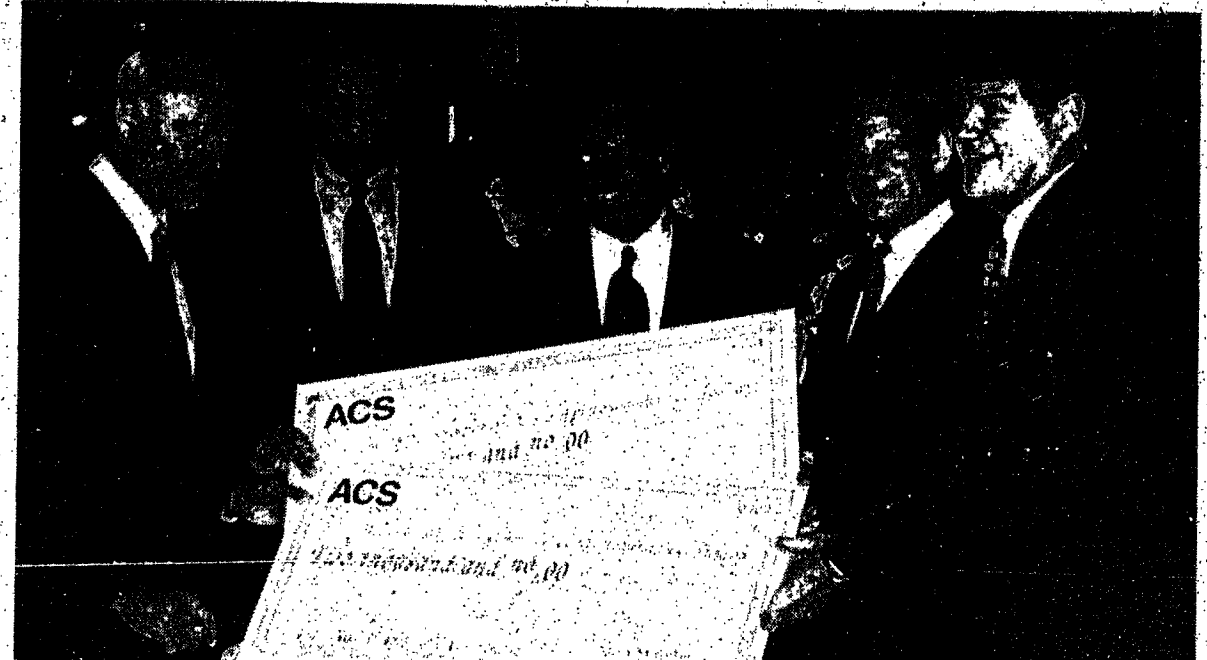

Jenkins, who will be the local general manager said, "I am looking forward to a lot of enthusiasm to winning this technical services contract and being in this area for a long time."

The Stennis contract ASC is vying for provides propulsion testing, operations and systems engineering for liquid/solid rocket systems, sub-systems, components and related technical services at Stennis.

The reception was to formally introduce the ACS team to local area civic, political and community leaders.

ACS has opened a field office at 833 Highway 90, Suite 15, Bay St. Louis.

The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce assisted ACS in setting up the meeting with the business and community leaders.

OLA to enter Pepsi Soccer Classic

Our Lady Academy's soccer team, which finished the regular season undefeated at 18-0-1 this year, will enter the fourth annual Girls Pepsi Soccer Classic in Vicksburg March 24-26.

OLA will play the winners of Warren Central and Pearl on Friday, March 25 at 7 p.m. at the Viking Stadium in Vicksburg.

The Coast plays a winter season of soccer, whereas the northern half of the state plays its soccer in the spring. Because there are no official district or state championships in girls soccer, the Crescents were delighted to be invited to play the Vicksburg/Warren Central tournament this spring.

"OLA has the longest continuous soccer program for girls in the state," said Harry Hull, coach and athletic director. Hull began the OLA soccer program in 1988.

At the time, the Crescents were the only girls soccer team in the state, and they had to play mostly Louisiana schools.

Since that time, four other schools on the Coast began and have continued a soccer program for girls: Mercy Cross and Ocean Springs in 1989, Long Beach in 1990, Biloxi in 1992, and Bay High in 1993.

The OLA Crescents won the

PUBLIC HEARING NOTICE

The City of Waveland is considering applying to the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development for a Community Development Block Grant and/or Home Investment Partnership Act Grant. The State of Mississippi has been awarded a 1994 allocation of $51,000,000 which will be made available to cities and counties on a competitive basis to undertake eligible community development activities. These funds must be used for one of the following purposes:

1. To benefit low and moderate income persons; or
2. To aid in the prevention or elimination of slums or blight; or
3. To meet other community development needs having a particular urgency because existing conditions pose a threat to the health and welfare of the community where other financial resources are not available to meet such needs.

The activities for which these funds may be used are in the areas of housing, public facilities, and economic development. More specific details regarding eligible activities, program requirements, and the rating system will be provided at a public hearing which will be held at the City Hall Annex on Monday, March 28 at 6:30 p.m. The purpose of this hearing will be to obtain citizen input into the development of a grant application.

Written comments concerning the proposed application may be submitted until Monday, April 4th at 4:00 p.m. at Waveland City Hall or may be mailed to the City of Waveland, 301 Coleman Avenue, Waveland, MS 39576. All comments offered at the public hearings and in writing will be considered by the Mayor and Board of Aldermen in developing the proposed grant application.

A second hearing has been scheduled for Monday, April 4th at 6:30 p.m., also at the City Hall Annex, to provide another opportunity for citizens to obtain information about the application and to provide input concerning the proposed project to the City of Waveland.

All citizens are invited to attend either or both hearings.

Fluctuating income makes budgets difficult, but not impossible

By Jan Lukens, MBA, CFP
Consumer Management Specialist

Seasonal work, commission or tip income, self-employment income, shift differentials, and sporadic overtime can all add up to a budgeting nightmare. But with the proper precautions, even the most erratic earnings can provide some financial security.

The most common mistakes made by individuals with fluctuating income are spending it all when the earnings are good and committing to fixed expenses based on the high earning periods.

With earnings that change frequently or vary greatly, even average earnings may be too high a figure to use for a monthly budgeting level.

Instead, keep fixed expenses as low as possible. Mortgage payments, car notes and other long-term and intermediate-term debt can cause severe financial problems in low earning years or months.

Make large down payments and limit the number of consumer loans. Stretch financing over the greatest term available at a favorable interest rate then pay off sooner when possible.

Make a plan for the leaner months. If the income is consistently greater in summer than winter, make projections for winter living expenses. Determine the overall shortage for the lean months, then prorate that total over the high earnings period. Set aside funds which can be used to supplement the winter deficit.

Cash flow records are of critical importance in accurately projecting budget needs. Keep detailed monthly income and expense records year round. These records can be used to project income fluctuations in future years and to balance income and expense needs.

Records point out money management mistakes which are often harder to detect when income varies greatly from month to month by showing long term trends in earning and spending. The key to financial security for those with income fluctuations is an adequate safety cushion. Emergency savings of three to six times the monthly expenses is necessary to protect the family financial security.

For the small business owner, it is wise to set up an emergency fund for the business and one for the personal finances. These funds should be liquid, in a money market fund or account or possibly a short-term bond fund, so that they are readily available during months of low income.

Getting a loan can be tough as well when income appears unstable to financial institutions. Even very high income applicants are rejected if that income is not perceived as secure and stable.

The best time to apply for credit is when your cash supply is high, not low. For self-employed persons, the Schedule C with your past two year's tax return should show a reasonable profit to expect credit to be granted.

If the initial loan officer at a financial institution rejects reasonable loan requests, appeal to the supervisory level to sell the merits of your proposal. If the income is self-employment earnings, an expense often forgotten is insurance, especially health and liability coverage. The cost of individual policies becomes prohibitive. With a strained budget, another high fixed cost can erode the little flexibility available.

But no coverage can leave the family far more devastated than any other financial mistake. Mississippi has no large-scale health insurance program for small businesses.

Look for membership in groups that offer coverage and stick with catastrophic coverage with high deductibles to lower cost.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid.

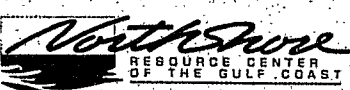

Although the Navy is getting smaller, the state-of-the-art ships, aircraft and high tech systems in today's fleet require bright, talented young men and women to operate them. The Navy has more than 56,000 job openings this year, most of which include guaranteed training.

Louis, is currently serving off the coast of Somalia aboard the amphibious assault ship USS Incheon, homeported in Norfolk, Va., the lead ship in the USS Incheon Amphibious Ready Group (ARG).

Wildfowl festival

Coast artists should get entries ready to compete in the Louisiana Wildfowl Carvers and Collectors Guild 20th annual festival and arts competition August 13-14 at the Health and Physical Education Building at the University of New Orleans.

The guild, a non-profit organization, is composed of individuals who are interested in carving, collecting, painting and photographing wildfowl. Its purpose is to preserve the folk art associated with waterfowl.

The primary emphasis of the festival is decoy carving, but has broadened to include photography, painting, pyrographic art, fish carving, miniature boats and a miscellaneous carving category.

In 1993, the competition had over 100 photographic entries and 159 carvers from around the country. Coast artists who have won in previous years include Nadine Stamm, Lois Griffin, Dan Herbold and Dr. William Clement.

For more information and contest rules call LWCCG president Bo Wolf at (504) 242-0578, another committee member or write the guild at P.O. Box 10883, New Orleans, La., 70181.

New Orleans Opera

A season of action, treachery, vengeance, doomed love and some of the world's most beautiful music takes center stage as the New Orleans Opera Association announces its lineup for 1994-95.

Operas to be staged next season include:

—Macbeth by Giuseppe Verdi, September 21 and 24, 1994;

NOMA

Exhibitions on display at the New Orleans Museum of Art in until May 8 include a unique style of photographic works and a collection of Japanese ceramics. The unique work of Russian immigrants Rimma Gerlovina and Valeriy Gerlovina is showcased in the photography exhibition of Photoglyphs.

Each photoglyph is a large, close-up portrait that compels the viewer to scrutinize and perhaps even unravel its messages. Sometimes humorous, sometimes haunting, the Gerlovins' photoglyphs explore subjects such as faith, mythology, the uses of language and the nature of reality.

Also on display at the museum until May 8 is a world of ceramics, from avant-garde Japanese studio works to turn-of-the-century Newcomb classics.

Modern Japanese Ceramics in American Collections offers one of the most comprehensive exhibitions of modern Japanese studio ceramics ever held in the West. Featured are 120 works by some 87 Japanese artists reflecting the wide range of shapes, sizes, colors, glaze styles and designs produced in Japan between 1935 and 1990.

The exhibitions coincide with the annual meeting of the National Council on Education for the Ceramic Arts, held this year in New Orleans.

Anderson exhibits

The featured exhibit on display until May 1 at the Walter Anderson Museum is "Walter Anderson's Pine Trees in the Wind."

The exhibit, curated by Anne Bradburn, features the patterns and colors of bark, the shapes and strength of the Gulf Coast's dominant tree, as interpreted by Walter Anderson. Many have never been on display before.

Some of the pieces included in the exhibit have become known as Anderson's "trunk paintings"—paintings his family found in a trunk in the old kiln house at Shearwater Pottery more than 20 years after his death.

The exhibit hours are Monday-Saturday 10-5 and Sunday 1-5.

Upcoming events at the museum include: —March 26-Paper-making workshop for children 8-12. The fee is $10 for museum members, $12 for others.

—April 9-Creativity Workshop for children of all ages from 10 a.m. to noon. The event is free to the public.

House of Blues

New Orleans' premier restaurant and entertainment venue, The House of Blues, has a full calendar of guests scheduled for March.

Bo Diddley, Leon Russell, Marcia Ball and other locally and nationally known artists will perform at the club, located at 225 Decatur.

Call the concert line at (504) 529-1421 for more details and upcoming events.

Exhibits

The Hillier House in Pass Christian announced exhibits for March including "The Pier," a series of watercolors by Jennifer Faust of Alabama; blue seashell pattern pottery by Mikael Carstanjen of Massachusetts; seashell necklaces by Maurice Milleur of the Coast; and sand etched wine goblets by Michelle Dern of California.

More than 100 artists are represented at the gallery and gift shop, located at 207 East Scenic Dr. in Pass Christian. They are open 10-5 Monday through Saturday and 12-5 on Sunday. Call 452-4810 for details.

Moisture decay

Detection and treatment can save your home

Moisture decay has been, is now, and will continue to be a problem that the homeowner must watch.

It is important that the homeowner give increased attention and close study to the growing tendency toward higher interior humidities, which cause dangerous accumulation of moisture, the beginning of "moisture decay." In some cases, moisture decay in sheathing and studs can be as fatal to a structure as termites or many years of physical deterioration.

When we refer to a moisture problem, we normally have reference to mildew, sweating, discoloration and peeling of paints from interior and exterior walls.

When we refer to a moisture decay, we have reference to a more serious physical deterioration of a structure caused from excessive moisture, water vapor and condensation which could and will probably cause rotting of building materials.

CAUSE OF MOISTURE
A dangerous accumulation of moisture is built up in most houses due to the increase use of moisture-creating equipment, tightness of structure, and leaks in structural defects. Moisture can enter the walls or floors from outside or inside the building.

When the warm air from inside the house penetrates the walls and floors and meets the cold air therein, we have what is commonly called "condensation." It is like the moisture on the mirror in the bath after one takes a hot shower.

However, the problem in the bathroom can be eliminated in a few minutes by opening the windows for ventilation and wiping the condensation off the mirrors. It is not quite that simple when the moisture is between the walls and floors, because there it is trapped and unless something is done to correct this problem, moisture decay will be well on its way.

Increased use of cooking, washing, bathing, drying and other moisture-creating actions or equipment, plus the tightness of construction in modern-day homes, emphasizes increased humidities.

In the winter, the house is sealed tightly and everyone moves about, taking baths and washing and drying clothes. Thus, all the moisture is trapped inside the house.

Moisture will move through the walls or floors when the house is tightly sealed. When the moisture reaches the inside of the walls and floors, and the temperature is lower, the moisture condenses.

This condition takes place all winter and, of course, it becomes ice or frost in the danger spots, causing physical deterioration in any section of the structure where the condition exists. Such a serious physical deterioration caused by the ice or frost is moisture decay at its worst.

ENTER FROM OUTSIDE

Moisture can also reach walls or floors from the outside. Any opening which will allow water to enter the floors or wall area will create decay when the sun shines on the affected area.

Such things as loose shingles, leaky roofs or parapet, clogged gutters, deteriorating roof valleys, leaking downspouts, faulty flashing, warped siding, grading above siding, boarded-up louvers, improper foundation ventilation and unvented heating systems are causes or sources for high humidities and moisture penetration.

It is simple matter to tell if a house has a moisture problem, but very difficult to determine if the problem is serious. One of the easiest methods to determine if the house has a moisture problem is to check the paint inside for mildew and outside for peeling. Water stains on interior walls under the windows are also signs of excessive moisture.

Neither of these two signs will prove that a moisture decay problem exists between walls or floors, but they will flash a caution light for the homeowner. They show that a moisture decay problem could or might exist if a correction program is not forthcoming.

There is an exception, however, to the warning sign: the latex exterior and interior paints now on the market adhere under conditions which would normally cause blistering, cracking or peeling.

If a structure is painted with latex paints, it is very difficult to determine if the house has a moisture problem. However, the exterior of many houses are painted with other emulsion vehicles.

The future will compound moisture problems discoveries because the paint on the market today will not signal a probable problem to the homeowner.

DETECTION/INSTRUMENT

There are on the market today portable electronic moisture meters designed to be used as trouble shooters in the field, to check moisture problems in lumber, plaster, roofing, sash, doors and interior trim.

These meters are used to make a direct reading scale in determining moisture contents and will insure an accurate reading, down to a penetration depth of approximately one inch. Test can be made in two seconds with no marring of the surface being tested.

The meters are small and lightweight and can be purchased at most paint stores. They weigh approximately three pounds, are battery operated with a rechargeable battery, and are built for rugged use. The battery lasts the lifetime of the instrument. The meters are comparatively expensive, ranging in price from $200 up.

Here again, they will show where a moisture problem exists, but will not show if a moisture decay problem has begun.

If the homeowner will follow a few simple steps during inspection, it is possible to determine the condition of the effective area.

A check of the kitchen, utility room and bath area is most desirable, as these are the danger locations for high humidity.

The moisture problem can be rectified in a very short and reasonably inexpensive way. The house has to be made so it can breathe. In order to accomplish this, there are on the market numerous kinds of small vents that can be placed on exterior walls which will eliminate any moisture.

The manufacturers call them "siding ventilators," "miniature vents," "midget louvers" or "better breathers."

Most of these vents vary in size from one-half inch to six inches in diameter and are constructed of aluminum or plastic.

It is a simple matter to drill a number of holes either in a frame or masonry constructed house and insert these vents, which will eliminate 90% of the moisture problem in any house.

Other methods of moisture elimination are exhaust or vent fans in the kitchen, utility room and bath areas, or occasionally during the winter, opening the house for through ventilation.

The latter procedure, however, is just a temporary solution. Corrections of faulty flashing, warped sidings, and other causes of moisture intake should also be rectified. Proper caulking around window frames will also eliminate moisture.

CONSULT BUILDER
The homeowner should consult with the builder and/or contractor in new and old construction and request their recommendation in correcting the problem.

In old construction, a local architect can serve as a counselor in rectifying the question of issue. Consequently, if a moisture decay or moisture problem is found upon the homeowner's inspection, a contractor or architect should be consulted to determine the extent of damage and methods of curing the problem.

Certainly, the problem should be corrected as soon as possible to keep the problem from spreading and creating additional damage to the structure. Homeowners will do themselves a favor by closely inspecting their homes and solving moisture problems as soon as possible.

Something New.

1 (601) 352-9993

There's something new to remember. From now on, when you make long distance calls to telephone numbers within Mississippi's 601 area code, dial 0 or 1 + 601 and then the number you're calling.

The nation's continued telecommunications growth has created a shortage of telephone numbers. By dialing the appropriate area code on all long distance calls, numbers are freed up for new business and residential customers.

If you have long distance numbers within the 601 area code on any programmed services or equipment like Speed Calling, Call Forwarding, modems, or even a FAX machine, now's the time to reprogram them. Effective May 1, 1994, dialing the area code will be necessary to complete long distance calls to telephone numbers within the 601 area.
